2 Families Wiped Out As 13 Burn to Death In Tragedies of Winter

MONSON, Me., March 2—(AP)—A fierce dwelling house fire wiped out eight members of a Monson family and injured a ninth seriously early today.

Elwood Smith, about 35, a teamster, his mother, and his six children were burned to death. The children ranged from a baby to a 10-year-old girl.

Smith's wife escaped but was reported in dying condition at a Dover-Foxcroft hospital.

Firemen said Smith, perished with other members of the family when he went back into the house in an attempt to rescue them after escorting his wife to safety.

Five of the children and their grandmother were trapped in second floor bedrooms of the one and one-half story wooden house. The baby was sleeping on the first floor with the parents.

The blaze apparently originated in the kitchen. It engulfed the structure in a few minutes. Firemen said the dwelling was a mass of flames when they arrived.

A neighbor, Eugene Bickford, reported smoke and flames drove him off when he attempted to get in after assisting Mrs. Smith to his home. Mrs. Smith's nightclothing was burned from her body.

The dead children were listed as Carolyn, 10, the oldest; Patricia, Malcolm, Robert, Judy, and the baby, whose name was unreported.

FAMILY WIPED OUT
KENOSHA, Wis., March 2—(AP)—A flash fire wiped out a family of five in a small frame cabin in a trailer camp on the edge of the city early today.

The dead were Carroll Maxwell, about 28; his wife, Betty, 26, and their three children, Jimmy 4, Steve 2, and Patricia, 2 months.

The Maxwell's two-room board cabin was beyond saving by the time the Pleasant Prairie Fire Department arrived. The firemen concentrated their efforts in the three below zero cold on keeping the flames from the trailers crowding the camp.

The sheriff's department said all the victims were trapped in their beds, except Maxwell, who apparently tried to get out.

The fire department blamed an oil heater for the blaze.

Early Rush for 1950 License Plates on Here

An early rush for 1950 auto license plates—viewed as a good sign by workers at the Fayette County auto club—was on here Thursday.

Car and vehicle owners have until March 31 to acquire their new plates. After then, they face arrest by police authorities.

Wednesday, the opening day for the sale of plates, brought a turnout slightly under that of the opening day in 1949, according to Howard Allen, deputy registrar. Bad weather cut down the number out for the plates. Plates will be sold for autos, farm trucks, motorcycles and trailers at the AAA office, located at 124 South Main Street.

The hours, except for the last week, when later hours will be kept, will be from 8:30 to 12 noon in the mornings and from 1 to 5 P. M. in the afternoons. During the last week the office will be kept open evenings.

Nine extra people have been employed in the office to help with the sale of approximately 15,000 license plates in Fayette County.

All vehicle owners who come to the AAA office to buy their plates have been asked to bring with them their certificates of title. Those whose names appear on the titles must come to the office.

Peace Conference In Moscow Ruled Out by President

WASHINGTON, March 2—(AP)—President Truman said today he will never go to Moscow as long as he is president but will cooperate in any move to preserve the peace.

Mr. Truman told his news conference he is for any plan to utilize the United Nations in preserving the peace.

He did not comment directly, however, on a proposal by Chairman McMahon of the joint congressional atomic energy committee.

McMahon called a senate speech yesterday for the western powers to work out a program for peace and then for the U. N. to hold an unprecedented session in Moscow. Mr. Truman made clear that his cooperation will never involve any trip by him to Moscow as long as he is president.

But, he said he would like to visit Moscow after he is through being president. Under questioning, he refused to say when that might be.

Meanderings

By Wash Fayette

It is always interesting to look back at some of the prices of staple commodities, and in an issue of the old Cyclone-Republican bearing date of August 24, 1905, I have found some interesting prices of farm products.

Here they are:
Cattle 2½ and 4 cents a pound.
Hogs 5 and 6 cents a pound.
Lambs, 5 cents a pound. Calves 4 and 5 cents a pound.

Spring chickens 11 cents a pound. Eggs, 16 cents a dozen. Butter, 14 to 20 cents a pound. Peaches 75 cents to $1.50 per bushel. Irish potatoes 45 cents a bushel. Cabbages 40 to 50 cents a dozen heads. Tomatoes, 40 cents a bushel. Lima beans 12½ cents a quart. Watermelons 18 cents each. Corn, 7 cents a dozen ears. Apples, 60 cents a bushel. Grapes, 3 cents a pound.

Wheat was selling at 80 cents a bushel, corn 55 cents and oats 25 cents.

That was when automobiles were just beginning to scare a lot of horses (and drivers) off the gravelled roads, and motor power and electricity for farms were still dreams not realized.

When the above prices were published, Thomas W. Marchant was editor and publisher and Hugh C. Wair city editor of the Cyclone-Republican.

Last of Bandit Gang Is Nabbed in Florida

CLEVELAND, March 2—(AP)—The last of three men wanted in a $34,570 loan office robbery here was in custody of FBI agents at Miami, Fla., today.

Thin-faced John Wesley Hux, a 27-year-old ex-marine, was picked up in the Florida city last night by two Miami detectives.

A nation-wide alert went out for the former cab-driver shortly after the Jan. 11 holdup of the Superior Savings & Loan Association.

Car Left on Street Is 'Jailed' And It'll Cost Owner To Get It

CINCINNATI, March 2—(AP)—Now here is a guy who is in trouble.

His automobile is in the "house-gow" and it's going to cost him plenty to get it out any way he turns—even if he reports it stolen.

It wasn't stolen—it was found on a downtown street and Patrolman Howard Hilgeman recognized it from previous reports so it was towed to "jail."

Hilgeman said if the owner wants it he has two choices:
1. He can pay $111 in traffic tags placed on the car since last September, plus $7.50 in police towing charge and plus 30 cents a day storage for as long as it remains in "jail."

2. He can fight the whole thing by posting $10 bond for each of eight parking violation tags and $25 for each of 12 citations for failure to have a proper safety-lane certification and all of that adds up to $380 bond—and he still has to fight the case.

Police didn't say who the car owner was—they wanted to see what he would do.

Mystery of Missing Baskets Has New York Police Baffled

NEW YORK, March 2—(AP)—The great wire basket mystery has New York police running around in circles.

Somebody is stealing wire trash baskets from the streets. Hundreds, in fact—316 in mid-Manhattan in the past five weeks, or about 10 a day.

Who? How? Why? The police, red-faced and hot under the collar, say it's got them beat.

"No baskets have been recovered to date," admits police department secretary Frank Doyle.

The city, in a burst of tidiness, put out 4,800 shiny new baskets last Jan. 23. They're big—34 inches high. They're heavy—45 pounds. They stand on crowded streets. The cops watch them as if they were filled with emeralds.

"I ask myself who would be wanting baskets," says officer Wilfred O'Mahoney, "and I tell myself—hah! apartment house superintendents.

"So I scout around behind apartment houses and what do I find? Cats. Laundry. Milk bottles. And baskets! But legal, boughten-and-paid-for baskets. Not our baskets. Not hide nor hair of them."

You can get plenty of tips from sidewalk Sherlocks:
"Out-of-townners take 'em. Use 'em to burn leaves."

But who burns leaves in February or March?
"Bird-fanciers are doing it. The baskets would make wonderful parrot cages."

Hmmm. Three hundred sixteen larcenous parrot-keepers in five weeks?

New Cold Wave Hits Here with Snow Squalls

Mercury Toboggans As Wintery Winds Lash Wide Area

March came in like a lion. As a result snowsqualls, biting wind and near-zero temperature were recorded here over Wednesday.

Zero weather is forecast for Thursday night.

Wednesday night was the most disagreeable of the entire winter. In addition to temperatures which reached as low as 8 above zero, frequent snowsqualls occurred. At times, whipped by strong winds they were veritable blizzards.

Still colder and more snow, with strong winds were forecast for Thursday night. Friday will be fair with slowly rising temperatures, according to the forecast.

Wednesday's maximum temperature was 35 degrees, and the low was 8 during the night, with forecasts of around zero for Thursday night.

(By The Associated Press)
Blustery, cold March winds whipped across wide areas from the Dakotas into the South Atlantic states today.

Temperatures were at mid-winter levels over the north central zero line extended southward into Iowa and Wisconsin. Winds ranged from 20 to 40 miles an hour over the midwest cold belt.

The cold air, fanned by strong winds, pushed into parts of the south and east and thermometers tumbled to below freezing in the Carolinas, Virginia and Tennessee. Some of the cool breezes hit other southern states but readings were above freezing.

The U. S. Weather Bureau said winds would diminish during the day over the frosty midcontinent area but not much relief from the low temperatures was expected until tomorrow.

Better Days Ahead
Generally fair weather was reported over the western part of the country and in most of the gulf states.

The March cold snap chilled parts of the south. It was a cool 21 at Asheville, N. C.; 20 at Roanoke, Va.; 22 at Nashville, Tenn.; 25 at Greensboro, N. C., and 27 at Richmond, Va. The now at Tallahassee, Fla., was 39.

Snow flurries fell throughout the Great Lakes region but some were reported as far south as Knoxville, Tenn., and in parts of northern New York and eastern Pennsylvania. Light snow fell in New York City early today and the mercury was 21 above.

Other early morning readings included 8 at Buffalo; 66 at Miami; 45 at New Orleans; 55 at Los Angeles; 30 at Salt Lake City and 19 at Boston.

Gas Shortage Faces Northeastern Ohio But Pressure Here. Good Despite Cold

While the rest of the state was hard hit by the coal strike and gas shortages, Washington C. H. today appeared to be in better than average shape to survive through the cold snap.

City Manager Winston W. Hill said he had made a survey of the situation here—industry, commercial establishments and homes—and had not as yet uncovered any hardship cases.

Alfred E. Weatherly, manager of the Dayton Power and Light Company here, gave a good report on this city's heating situation. He said gas pressure even during this cold spell was normal in the homes; no curtailment has been ordered in industries here which use gas and those users of central heat have no immediate concern.

Weatherly said he "was not going to predict what the situation would be like in the future."

The manager of the gas and electric company here said very few conversions will be made from central heating to gas heating until sometime this spring, when the temperatures are more favorable.

Most of the major commercial establishments are still using central heat, provided them by the DP&L. Weatherly said the DP&L Co. received two more carloads of coal Wednesday for the central heat system.

Hill said his survey of the city did not turn up any hardship cases. He said, however, if there are any he would like for them to be brought to his attention.

Elsewhere in Ohio, the situation was becoming critical.

INDUSTRY CUT OFF
YOUNGSTOWN, March 2—(AP)—A stoppage of industrial gas has slammed shut factory gates throughout northeastern Ohio.

The East Ohio Gas Co.'s order to shut off completely the flow of natural gas to 700 industrial plants came hard on the heels of frigid winds and snow that swept over the area.

More gas is being used by householders as the coal pinch tightens.

The Republic Steel Corp. plants here instantly felt the plugging of their natural gas supply. The blend of coal shortage and gas shutoff caused 13 operating open hearths to shut down. Some 2500 Republic workers were left jobless.

Spokesmen for Republic said at Cleveland that layoffs due to gas curtailment would total 10,000 Republic employees at Youngstown, Canton and Massillon if the cutoff continued for 24 hours.

Washington C. H. residents were not affected by the gas shortage.

Found Innocent Of Contempt in Unended Strike

Surprise Decision Based on Evidence And Not Conjecture

WASHINGTON, March 2—(AP)—The United Mine Workers today were found innocent of contempt of court in the 25-day soft coal strike.

Federal Judge Richmond B. Keach, who heard the case without a jury announced a verdict of "not guilty" on both the civil and criminal contempt charges.

The judge said he had considered the government's petition and "found on the record" that the charges of contempt of his Feb. 11 back to work order were not supported.

The union had contended that it was in no way responsible for the refusal of the miners to work. Its defense was that the 372,000 coal diggers had each quit work by individual decision, not by direction of the union, and that officers of the union had done all they could to end the strike.

It took Keach just two minutes to announce his decision.

After offering counsel for both sides an opportunity to be heard and saying that he had "heard none" the judge signaled to the marshal to escort him from the courtroom.

He made his announcement soberly and white-faced.

Keach had prepared a long written opinion, but announced his ruling and did not bother to read the prepared document.

Stunning Surprise
The decision was a stunning surprise to the crowded court room because the union in two previous strike cases has been held guilty and compelled to pay fines aggregating $2,130,000.

Government officials increasingly concerned over the spreading economic effects of the coal production stoppage had placed high hopes on the contempt case as a means of getting the miners back to work.

There are indications the government may now turn to seizure of the mines unless there is a quick contract agreement that gets coal production going again.

President Truman, in response to questions, confirmed at a news conference today that seizure plans have been drawn up. Deprecating their significance, he said plans are always drafted, covering all the president's powers.

But one report was that the plans were completed only yesterday and were designed specifically to deal with the present situation. The Evening Star said the administration plan is to ask Congress for a law permitting seizure if all other efforts to get coal production have failed by early next week.

Assistant Attorney General H. Graham Morrison told reporters in response to questions that he had no comment on the verdict.

Appeal A Question
Asked if the government could appeal the decision, he replied: "We think it can be appealed on the civil side." But he would not say whether the government planned such an appeal.

Welly H. Hopkins, union chief counsel, commented: "A fair and equitable decision." Judge Keach said in his decision that:

"It may be that the mass strike of union members has been ordered, encouraged, recommended, instructed, induced, or in some way permitted by means not appearing in the record; but this court may not convict on conjecture, being bound to act only on the evidence before it, which is insufficient to support a finding of either criminal or civil contempt."

Judge Keach's written opinion said there was no clear evidence that the union had failed to obey his strike end order.

The judge said that this case was different from the 1948 contempt conviction of the UMW. He pointed out that the union in 1948 made no attempt to restore coal production as ordered by a court grant.

Thus Judge Keach ruled that while he was not saying that the union had tried to comply with his strike end order in "good faith," the court had no evidence

Lewis Gets Summons For Ohio Damage Suit

DEFIANCE, March 2—(AP)—A summons was served on President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers while he was a train going through Ohio last night—the second time in less than six weeks.

Last night a summons ordering him to prepare an answer to a coal mine operator's suit seeking $1,500,000 damage was served by Deputy Sheriff Donald V. Kehnest of Defiance.

On Jan. 19, some 17 summonses were served on the mine leader in similar suits seeking $9,000,000 damages from him and his union. All the suits were filed by mine operators under Ohio's Valentine Act, which prohibits combinations of any kind to limit or reduce the production or affect the price of coal and other commodities.

Last night's summons was issued in Franklin County (Columbus) court. It is based on a suit by the Sunny Hill Coal Co.

The service was announced here by Attorney Erwin L. Clemens after a telephone call from the deputy.

Kehnest said he had to push the summons under the door of Lewis' train compartment when the mine leader slammed the door in his face.

Clemens said, however, that it was a "good service."

Lewis was abroad the Baltimore & Ohio Capital Limited. Kehnest boarded the train at Garrett, Ind., and left it at Willard, O. Lewis was returning to Washington from his brother's funeral in Springfield, Ill.

One of the children was still breathing when police forced their way into the two-family house. He died within an hour.

Garden Club Holds Meeting

Discuss Beautifying Court House Lawn

"Here's to the years that ended in glory.
And here's to the new one, an unwritten story;
Here's to our members with still greater zest,
Let us pledge to our club our trust and best."

This club pledge opened the meeting of the Washington Garden Club at the home of Mrs. T. N. Willis on Tuesday.

The group discussed at some length the project of the beautification of the Court House lawn. Other campaign suggestions made by members included the cleaning of highways, junk yard exposure, discouraging the growth of poison ivy and yard cleaning.

The club members were reminded of the all-day landscape school to be conducted March 13 by Victor Ries at the Trinity Methodist Church. It will be a box lunch affair and registration will begin at 9 A. M.

A motion was passed by the group to send flowers to the new county hospital at its opening. Members are planning to supply vases and plates for the hospital. The group will meet with Mrs. Don Collins to select shrubbery for the hospital.

The highway improvement project on routes 25, 31 and 33, extending from the Ohio River to Lake Erie, was discussed. The project is being undertaken by the combined Ohio clubs, with the Washington Garden Club a participant.

A clean-up campaign committee of Mrs. Ray Johnson, Mrs. Elza Woodruff and Mrs. Robert Wilson was named. An interesting pamphlet from Victor Ries was read, including some questions and answers on topics like seed, trees and potted plants and their growth.

Mrs. Robert F. Wilson, president of the club, had charge of the business session, at which the secretary's report was read by Mrs. Johnson and the treasurer's report by Mrs. William Summers.

Mrs. Wilson reported on the presidents' tea and meeting held at the Lynn House at Chillicothe on February 17.

The program committee, in charge of Mrs. Don Collins and Mrs. Elza Woodruff, showed slides on beautification.

Refreshments were then served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Carl Anders.

Fire Damages Big Farm Residence

The former Charles Lough, farm home, a brick and frame residence containing 13 rooms and located at the intersection of the Greenfield and Gormley Roads, 8 miles south of Washington C. H., was damaged by fire Wednesday evening.

The property, now owned by George Moomaw who has been making improvements in the building before moving into it, was damaged to the extent of about $3,000 by the flames, which were extinguished by the Greenfield Fire Department.

The fire had started from oil which had leaked from a container used in feeding an oil furnace, recently installed.

The furnace room a room back of the furnace room and one room on the second floor were badly damaged. Heat and smoke caused extensive damage to most of the house.

Mercy Killing Trial

"Probably just as an interesting case such as doctors talk about," King replied.

Q. Doctor, as an anesthetist, did you transfuse people from time to time?

A. Yes.

Q. In so doing, in preparing for transfusions, do you follow certain procedures in regard to the tools used in the transfusion?

A. I run fluid through the tubes to get the air out of them.

Q. To avoid doing anything?

A. Well, it's to avoid having air go into the veins.

In brief cross-examination, Chief Defense Louis E. Wyman asked Dr. King:

"Is there any known cure for terminal cancer?"

"Not that I know of," replied the doctor.

Wyman then asked if demerol was given to cure a patient.

"No," answered King.

The doctor conceded the patient would suffer more if no drug was administered and "possibly" would die earlier.

Dr. King, something of a surprise witness, was then excused.

Mine Union Cleared

that the union had disobeyed the order.

John L. Lewis, UMW president, twice sent back-to-work orders to the miners after Keech's Feb. 11 stop strike order was issued.

In effect, Keech said the weakness of the government's case was that it had made no showing that Lewis was not in earnest when he sent these instructions to his union members.

Harper added: "It will be a big lift for the miners but they still won't go back to work until they get a contract."

Another miner declared: "This is better than we expected."

Happy Is The Day When Backache Goes Away . . .

As we get older, stress and strain, over-exertion, excessive smoking or exposure to cold sometimes slows down kidney function. This may lead many folks to complain of nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness. Getting up nights or frequent passages may result from minor bladder irritations due to cold, dampness or dietary indiscretions.

If your discomforts are due to these causes, don't wait, try Doan's Pills, a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 60 years. While these symptoms may often otherwise occur, it's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

The Nation Today

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON, March 2—(P)—“The God That Failed,” a recently published book, six well-known writers tell why they became communists or sympathizers and then backed away.

It tries to answer at least one question: Why communism appealed to a number of intellectuals, here and abroad, particularly in the 1930's and before.

Some of them were amazingly foggy about communism when they joined the parade.

But, disillusioned and often sickened by the kind of democracy they saw practiced in the western world, they thought they had found in communism the great chance for brotherhood, justice and a good life for all.

It took some of them years to find out—or to admit to themselves—that they were involved in a fraud.

Of the six, only two are Americans: Richard Wright, Negro novelist who grew up in Alabama and never went beyond grammar school; and Louis Fischer, a newspaperman. Wright joined the party, Fischer was a sympathizer.

The other four are Arthur Koestler, an Austrian who joined the party in Germany before Hitler; Ignazio Silone, who joined and headed the Italian communist underground in Mussolini's time; Stephen Spender, British poet who joined briefly; and Andre Gide, French Nobel Prize winner who was a sympathizer.

Of them all, Silone was the only important communist. But Wright, least educated of the six, had the sharpest insight fastest into the true nature of international communism as it operates under Soviet leadership.

Wright was living in a Chicago slum when he joined. Feeling oppressed himself, he thought communism offered the fullest and most free and equal life for his own people and all others.

He became disillusioned rapidly as he saw the American communist party in action and realized what it meant to his freedom and integrity and, therefore, what it meant to others.

He didn't kid himself, as the others did, by trying to explain away the things that gaged him. As they piled up, but didn't add up, he got out. In fact, he was the only one of the six physically thrown out. He was dumped on his head on a sidewalk.

Some of the others had to go through intellectual convulsions before they withdrew. But it is Gide, most famous of the six, who looks absurd in this book.

He was the true parlor pink, the tea-cup revolutionary, who just couldn't bring himself to read Karl Marx but made loud noises on paper.

Safe in his warm Paris apartment, with a snug bank account all his life, he suffered for humanity. It hurt him to think he had privileges, such as money, which others didn't have.

He backtracked fast when he finally visited Russia and found the reality a little different from his dream. It was too much for his stomach.

It struck me in this book which is an extremely worthwhile and stimulating book, that some of the six are still remote from the common man about whom they felt so much concern.

They spend a lot of time in this book complaining that communism robs an intellectual, or a writer, of freedom to express himself as he pleases. They gave me the impression that they look upon the writer as a special class, a little off to one side, or above, mankind.

I should think what would have discouraged them most keenly was the fact that communism, at least the Soviet variety of it, robs all people, workers as well as writers, of freedom and that tyranny is necessary any place anytime if a dictatorship is to survive.

There's an insolence in Koestler: “We ex-communists are the only people on your side who know what it's all about.” Which is another way of saying: “You can't understand what's evil till you've committed a sin.”

That makes no allowance for the people who saw it clearly for what it was and rejected it, without taking part. I'm not talking about those who rejected communism out of selfishness or their own inability to think it through or think at all.

I mean those, and there are plenty of them, who were dissatisfied with the performance of western democracy but were sharp enough to see that Soviet communism was not the medicine.

Westminster Guild Members Hear Able Discussion On "Women of the Bible"

The Westminster Guild of the First Presbyterian Church met in the Sunday School room of the church, Wednesday afternoon, and was preceded by a meeting of the executive board at 1 o'clock.

The president, Mrs. Charles Reinke opened the meeting and read from "The Upper Room" about the different circles to which different people belong and that there should be one circle that would be wide enough to include the whole world. She offered prayer.

A hymn was sung with Mrs. Russell Giebelhouse at the piano. The president called upon Mrs. C. H. Thoroman, secretary of stewardship. She said "Christianity is an art. Great ideals have been put into the keeping of each one and we should all use this art and those ideals for the glorification of God."

Mrs. Rankin Paul and Mrs. Olive Icenhower then sang a beautiful duet and the verses were taken from Ecclesiastes. Mrs. Marian Gage was at the piano.

The secretary, Miss May Duffee, read the minutes of the last meeting. The treasurer, Mrs. Dorothy Clark, gave her report and several recommendations were read.

The recommendations were: that the six months apportionment be paid at this time and also the contingent fund; that $100 be allowed to furnish the church house office with desk and desk chair, and that a package of food be sent to England to friends of Mrs. Clarence Craig, in respect to Mrs. Craig for her interesting talk at the Guild meeting last month.

Small food packages to be brought to the next meeting must be nothing in glass and nothing perishable.

Many members were reported ill. Those in hospitals are Mrs. Ed Porter, Mrs. Charles Gage and Mrs. Loren Bennett. Now at home are Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Fabb. Miss Miriam Perdue also is ill. Miss Emma Jackson, who has been confined to her home for sometime, sent her thanks for cards and gifts received.

Mrs. Reinke spoke of April being house cleaning time and the various groups had been assigned certain duties. A book review is to be given by Mrs. Trueblood in April.

The committee appointed for the purchase of office furniture is Mrs. Emma Kelley, Mrs. Mary Jane Gardner and Mrs. W. E. Klever.

Group reports were then given. Mrs. Frank Jackson received the offering and gave the prayer.

Devotions and the program were in charge of Mrs. Jess Robinson. She read 20 verses from the 14th chapter of St. John and a poem on St. John. She read from the year book of prayer, the missionaries to be prayed for, especially in Japan, and offered prayer.

Mrs. Robinson introduced the speaker for the afternoon, Mrs. C. S. Nichols, of Springfield. Her subject was "Women of the Bible." In opening, she said that we should study, if we could not make our lives as worth while as did many of these women of Bible times. They did not know they were to be written about. Some of them were good, some bad and each had an influence on the lives of many others.

She began with Eve, the first

Mrs. Schreiner Is Honored On Birthday

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schreiner were pleasantly surprised Wednesday evening when 26 relatives, neighbors and friends arrived promptly at 6:30 with dinner, very deliciously prepared, the occasion being the birthday of Mrs. Schreiner.

The evening was spent informally in visiting. Mrs. Schreiner very graciously acknowledged a number of gifts.

Those enjoying the pleasant event were: Mrs. Walter McCoy, Mrs. Emma Chaney, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Dunn, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Fortier, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Brandenburg, Mr. and Mrs. Othol O. Wade, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Ward and daughters, Toni and Judy, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Fortier and son, Donnie, Mr. Cal Sesler, Miss Effie Palmer, Mr. and Mrs. Haskell Thompson, Mrs. Orpha Avann, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Engle, Bob Cyrus and Pattie McCoy.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. W. Stanley Paxson returned Wednesday from a six week vacation spent touring Mexico and also a visit with their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Urbantke, and small daughter in Houston, Texas.

Mrs. C. F. Nichols of Springfield, was the Wednesday luncheon guest of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Scott.

Mrs. John York Is Speaker At Regular Church Day WSCS Meeting Wednesday

The Women's Society of Christian Service of Grace Methodist Church held its monthly all-day meeting on Wednesday.

The morning business session, conducted by Mrs. Leola Weinrich, president, was opened with the singing of a hymn, "I Would Be Like Jesus," following which Mrs. Robert Meriweather had charge of the devotionals.

She used a Lenten theme, and closed her meditation with a poem by Mrs. Ethel McElwain, "A Prayer for the Lenten Season," followed by prayer.

The customary reports were given by the secretary, treasurer, and circle leaders.

An urgent appeal was made by the supply secretary for comforts for South Side Settlements in Columbus.

Announcement was made of the National Assembly of the Women's Society to be held in Cleveland April 18-21.

The meeting was closed with prayer by Mrs. Frank Christopher.

The covered-dish luncheon was served in Fellowship Hall, the tables being decorated with vases of pastel spring flowers. Members of Circles 5 and 6 were hostesses.

The afternoon program was opened with a piano prelude following which Mrs. Ed Fite, the presiding officer, gave the call to worship.

A poem, "Children," by Kahlil Gibran, was read by Mrs. William Lovell, after which Miss Marian Moore and Mrs. William Clarke sang a duet, "Happy the Home When God Is There."

Stating that the test of our citizenship is our passion for the citizens of tomorrow, Mrs. Fite introduced Mrs. John York, who discussed the topic, "Modern Standards of Morals Among High School and College Youth." Out of her broad experience with young people as a housemother in a college fraternity, Mrs. York spoke of several problems facing the youth of our day. She stressed that parents accomplish more by patience and understanding than by criticism, and that their most effective teaching is by example rather than by precept.

Mrs. Frank Haines offered the closing prayer.

Dr. and Mrs. Robert Woodmansee and children, Karen and David, arrived here Wednesday from New York City, where they landed a week ago after sailing from Bremerhaven, Germany, after a year's residence there. They are at the home of Dr. Woodmansee's parents, Dr. and Mrs. A. D. Woodmansee.

Chaney's Hosts To Members Of Bible Class

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Chaney were host and hostess to the members of the Shepherds Bible Class of the First Baptist Church for the regular monthly meeting.

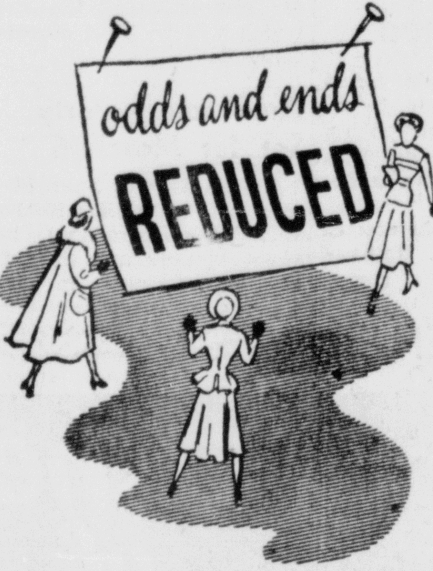

Miss Mabel Briggs was devotional leader and used quotations from Charles Spurgeon, a missionary in London, England, closing with prayer.

Mr. Chaney, president of the class conducted the business session, during which the unusual reports were heard and approved and special reports of 55 calls were reported by members of the class made during the month.

Mrs. Kenneth Burnett and Mrs. Jeanette Lindsey, program leaders conducted several interesting and amusing contests. During the social hour Mrs. Chaney was assisted by Mrs. Richard Park and Bertha and Metta Graves in the serving of a tempting dessert course, featuring a clever St. Patrick theme.

Anti-Trust Suit Facing Paper

Freedom of Press At Stake, Is Claim

BY JAMES B. SIBBISON
CLEVELAND, March 2—(AP)—The government opens its first court case today against a newspaper accused of injuring the business of a competing radio station.

In an anti-trust suit that promises to last several weeks, the U. S. attorney general has charged the Lorain Journal with refusing to accept advertising from business houses advertising through radio station WEOL of Elyria. It has denied the charges.

Because of its unprecedented nature, this case has drawn in as "a friend of the court" the American Newspaper Publishers Association, representative of publishers of around 90 percent of the daily newspapers circulated in the United States.

The ANPA feels that if the government wins its requested injunction against the Journal, then:

"For the first time in history, the press of this country will be subject to an order requiring it to give free access to its columns to anyone who demands the same. If that access be granted to advertisers, it follows that it must be granted to those who wish to disseminate information either in the nature of news or editorial comment, irrespective of the judgment of the publisher as to its value or importance."

The general charge against the Journal is that the newspaper and four of its officers had combined to "restrain and monopolize the dissemination of news, advertising and other information in violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust act."

Besides its claim with respect to discrimination against the Elyria radio station, the government accuses the Journal of refusing to publish advertisements by merchants who advertise in the Lorain Sunday News, a weekly.

It also says the Journal induced the Elyria Chronicle-Telegram not to circulate its paper in Lorain. The cities are both in Lorain County.

Last Dec. 7, Federal Judge Emerich B. Freed refused to grant the government a temporary injunction against the Journal, requiring it to stop the practices alleged in the suit.

Today's hearing, also before Judge Freed, concerns a request for a permanent court order against the claimed practices. There is no penalty involved, even if the justice department wins.

Two WHS Youths To Attend Institute

The boys are to be taken to Cincinnati by Dr. Stewart B. Smith of the Washington C. H. Rotary Club.

The institute is sponsored by the Rotary clubs of Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky, with the addition of West Virginia this year.

It is conducted by the United Nations Association of Cincinnati for the purpose of educating and informing the future citizens of our country on world affairs today, and will consist of approximately 1000 students.

The Washington C. H. Rotary Club will cover the expenses of delegates sent from here. Costs of the institute will be met from funds obtained in Cincinnati and from public-spirited business organizations and Rotary.

The institute will open Friday evening with a dinner at the Netherland Plaza Hotel, featuring a notable speaker. Saturday morning, the student delegates will meet to hear several speakers on different aspects of American foreign policy.

After these speeches, they will break up into smaller discussion groups, and under the guidance of discussion leaders, will devote the remainder of the morning to discussing their own opinions on the questions raised in the speeches. A luncheon, featuring another well known speaker, will follow. Each of the students brought to Cincinnati by the various local Rotary clubs, will spend the night in the home of a Cincinnati family, who will provide lodging and breakfast for them. Transportation facilities will also be offered to and from each of the homes.

Some of Livestock Prices over Parity

All other products covered by the survey are bringing less than the goal—which is referred to as parity prices.

Parity is a standard for measuring farm prices, declared by law to be equally fair to producers and those who buy his products.

February Was Wet and Warm Check-up Shows

Precipitation 2.12 Inches Above The Usual 2.74 Inches

February came to an end with 2.12 inches of rainfall above normal and average temperature 1.48 degrees above normal.

Total precipitation during February was 4.86 inches, compared with 2.74 normal, and the average temperature for the month was 33.48 degrees, compared with a normal of 32.

The 2.12 inches of excess precipitation during February brought the total excess during January and February to nearly 8 inches, or a total of 13.96 inches.

Temperatures during February ran all the way from 67 degrees on February 14 to 2 above zero on the 26, or a range of 65 degrees during the month.

Rain or snow occurred 18 days out of the 28, and 15 days were listed as cloudy, five partly cloudy and eight clear.

The mean maximum temperature was 41.82 degrees and mean minimum was 25.14 degrees.

The cold days during the last of the month pulled the average down materially, as the lowest temperature of the winter to-date was recorded, with two above zero one morning and 6 above the next morning.

More snow fell during the month than throughout the remainder of the winter. So far, the winter has been conspicuous by the small amount of snowfall.

March came in like the proverbial lion, with snowsqualls and biting winds.

Young Republicans Here To Organize

A group of young Republicans have planned to hold a meeting on Monday evening in the probate court room at the Court House to take steps toward future organization.

When a date and other plans for setting up an organization are decided upon, an invitation is to be given to all young Republicans of Fayette County to be presented at its formation.

David McDonald who participated in the recent Republican Lincoln Day dinner meeting held at the American Legion Hall, will be present at the March 6 meeting. He is director of organization of Young Republicans Clubs for the state Republican headquarters.

School Bond Proposal Approved 595 to 59

STEUBENVILLE, March 2—(P)—Voters at nearby Brilliant, approved a supplemental $320,000 school bond issue yesterday by a 595 to 59 margin.

The bond issue approved yesterday and one for $545,000 approved previously will be used for a high school and physical education plant.

British Laborites Shuffle Cabinet

LONDON, March 2—(AP)—Prime Minister Attlee has reshuffled his Labor cabinet along stronger political lines to meet the threatened Conservative challenge in parliament, which opened today.

Attlee, whose Labor party majority in the 625-member House of Commons was cut to a scanty seven in last week's elections, kept his three top cabinet aides: Deputy Prime Minister Herbert Morrison, Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin and Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir Stafford Cripps.

He made some 15 changes, chiefly in the lower brackets, in a move obviously aimed at strengthening the party for new elections which most observers feel will be called within a few months at most.

New Shoe Spray For Athlete Foot

MIDLAND, Mich., March 2—(P)—A new spray to give men "fungus-free" shoes was announced today by the Dow Chemical Co.

The solution, Dow said, can practically eliminate the fungus in shoes that helps cause athlete's foot and mildew.

A man's chances of reinfecting himself with athlete's foot by wearing infected shoes can thus be minimized, the company claimed.

Dow said the chemical, copper 3-phenylsalicylate, will be sold to shoe manufacturers so that lining materials can be treated before they're made into shoes.

Underground Water Table High in Ohio

SALEM, March 2—(P)—Eastern Ohio's underground water table is at its highest level in many months.

District Weather Observer L. H. Copeland reported this fact today. He attributed the improvement to the 11.50 inches of precipitation during January and February.

Practice Beats Books for Pupil

New Plan Adopted At Carnegie Tech

PITTSBURGH—They're teaching students instead of teaching books at Carnegie Tech. The college is trying to meet the country's need for business and industrial executives whose horizons don't end at the edge of their desks.

Dr. Robert E. Doherty, president of the Carnegie Institute of Technology and father of the plan, will retire this year, confident his educational theories have taken root after almost 15 years of development. His Carnegie plan calls for drastic changes in what and how a college teaches. Students learn from solving planned problems in a professional manner.

A problem is presented in general form and the budding executives must define the problem, seek and organize information, plan a solution, execute and test it and then generalize about what they learned.

Big Objective

"The big objective," declared Dr. Doherty, "is to assure a thorough understanding of the economic system and general social system in which the student lives and his business operates."

He added: "This objective implies training for responsible citizenship as a major and integral part of training for a professional administrative career."

Dr. Doherty thinks there aren't enough executives who can consider the effect of their decisions on the everyday lives of the public at large. Many businessmen are efficient job holders but not social-minded leaders.

Carnegie Tech isn't the only organization aware of the problem. Other colleges—like the universities of Chicago, Pittsburgh and Toronto, and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology—have "off-the-job" training programs. Many businesses—such as General Electric and Standard Oil of New Jersey—also are training social-minded executives.

Plans in Infancy

But plans by industry are in their infancy and Doherty feels colleges also should do a better job.

"What colleges should do," he explained, "cannot be done by industry, just as what industry should do cannot be done by colleges."

He wants his own and other schools to help students learn outside the classroom from books and experience so they may "grow in professional stature throughout their lives."

Dr. Elliot Dunlap Smith, Carnegie Tech provost, is charged with carrying out the Carnegie plan. He said it's more than a rearrangement of courses and subject matter, adding:

"We believe that the most important thing any student should learn in college is how to learn from books but also from experience. We have been at it almost 15 years and we are just at the point where we can honestly say we are operating plan."

Plan Extended

Carnegie Tech now is extending its plan to graduates. A graduate school of industrial administration will open next fall. The W. L. and May T. Mellon Foundation gave $6,000,000 to help establish it.

The Carnegie plan also is meeting with favor out in the practical world. S. A. Swensrud, president of Gulf Oil Corporation, said "it's a convincing affirmative answer to the question, 'Can education consciously produce the kind of executive our company wants?'"

C. E. Wilson, president of General Motors, commented that Carnegie Tech has taken "positive steps" toward doing something about "a half century's fine talk on training men for leadership."

Westinghouse Electric likes the idea well enough to maintain a professorship of electrical engineering at Tech and to finance 10 annual scholarships. Westinghouse vice president A. C. Monteith declared:

"America must have an even larger body of professional men who can build well-adjusted personal lives and who can act intelligently and effectively in such fields as human relations, business economics and assume their full responsibilities as citizens as well as advance to leadership in their technical specialties."

House of Commons Menaced by Fire

LONDON, March 2 —(P)—Fire broke out in the basement of the House of Commons Tuesday. It was put out in ten minutes, but a pungent smell of smoke will hang over the first session of the newly parliament tomorrow.

Five bridges of firemen summoned by police to the historic building soon had the fire under control. When they arrived, excited members of parliament already were in the basement trying to help workmen fight the blaze.

The fire was in a maze of tunnels under the building, which is the historic palace of Westminster.

Value of Vital Blood Program To County Told

"No Blood Wasted" In Another Free Red Cross Service

The Red Cross is beating disaster to the punch.

An epidemic of blood bank programs has spread throughout Ohio and is now in Fayette County.

Started in this state just 15 months ago, there are now 33 counties in Ohio numbered in the Red Cross blood program — and Fayette County is one of them.

What is this blood bank program all about? How did it start? In April, 1947, a nitrate-laden freighter blew up at Texas City, Texas, killing 512 people. 35,000 units of plasma were used there—the last of a wartime surplus of plasma.

The Texas City and other emergencies pointed out the great need for a ready supply of blood that would be available at a moment's notice.

Blood Provided Gratis

In January, 1948, the Red Cross launched its blood bank program—a program that provides blood, without charge, to whoever needs it—in whatever quantity it is needed—and wherever it is needed.

Today, a little over two years later, the program has grown through a good part of the United States. It is estimated that three and a half years more are needed to set up the 80 regions needed to cover the country. There are 33 regions now, with Columbus being the eighteenth.

Where does all this blood come from?

From you. Or, at least, it should. Because you, as a Fayette Countyman, can get blood free here or anywhere else, if you say you are from Fayette County. You do not have to be an emergency case, either.

600-Pint Quota

The mobile blood unit of the Red Cross makes six visits a year to Fayette County to collect donations of blood. The quota for the county is set according to population—and the quota is 600 pints a year for Fayette County.

No matter how much blood is contributed, the people of Fayette County will get as much as they need, according to Anthony L. Schmiege, administrator of the Columbus Regional Blood Center, who visited here Tuesday. When the Fayette County Memorial Hospital opens its doors this spring, there will be a two weeks' supply of blood on hand. There is no charge to anyone for this blood. In counties that are not yet in this program, blood costs the patient as much as $25 a pint.

"If more blood is needed in an emergency," Schmiege said, "it will be rushed here by the highway patrol or by the Red Cross itself. Routine requests are delivered by bus."

The mobile unit made its first visit here in April, 1949, opening a blood program that the county medical society and the county Health Department were responsible for bringing here.

54 Pints Collected

Just this past February 1, the mobile unit made its first visit of 1950 here and collected 54 pints of blood.

That blood was taken to the Columbus laboratory and was processed and ready for transmission with three days. It was immediately sent somewhere in Ohio to a county participating in the blood bank program.

Until World War II, whole blood could only be kept for a few days. An anti-coagulant was developed, however, that will keep blood in its whole form for 21 days.

If the blood isn't used within the 21-day period, it will be returned to Columbus, where the plasma will be drawn off and sent to the Red Cross laboratory at Lansing, Michigan.

The plasma is then fractionated into five bi-products, which are brought back to Columbus and distributed free to hospitals and doctors to fight, infections diseases, to use in the prevention of measles and in surgery, in serious skin infections and for the treatment of shock.

"No Blood Wasted"

"No blood is wasted," Schmiege emphasized, and the thumbnail history of what happens to the blood you donate illustrates that statement well.

The Red Cross mobile units operating out of Columbus take every precaution to safeguard the blood donor. The special staff is equipped with, in addition to their regular medical training, extra instruction to fit them for this blood bank program.

After the blood is typed at the Columbus lab, the donor receives a card, on which is listed his blood "group" and donation dates. It would ordinarily cost a few dollars to have your blood typed, yet this service is given free, in addition to any information about health disorders that your blood may reveal in the analysis.

An extensive blood bank program is needed today more than ever, Schmiege pointed out, as a preparedness measure in the event of war. He said the military program alone requires 600,000 pints of blood a year.

Something the scientists learned from the atom bomb explosions in Japan and at Bikini, said Schmiege, was that one way to treat atomic radiation was to flush the entire bloodstream in the body three times in a three-week period. And it takes a lot of blood he added.

The cost of handling the blood bank program is paid for out of the national fund-raising drive held by the Red Cross each year.

The drive began Wednesday and will continue through March 31, with the quota for 1950 set at $9,500 for Fayette County. Red Cross flags throughout the downtown area announced the opening of the drive here.

The money raised in the campaign is used by the Red Cross to maintain five other free services, in addition to the blood banks: 1) Home service to veterans and military personnel; 2) water safety and first-aid program; 3) disaster service; 4) home nursing and 5) volunteer services.

Western Allies Plan Spring Meet

LONDON, March 2—(AP)—The foreign ministers of the 12 Atlantic Pact nations are planning to meet this spring, probably in Europe, the British foreign office said today.

A foreign office spokesman said the meeting of "the council of the North Atlantic Pact" might give the United States, British and French foreign ministers an opportunity to hold special big three meetings.

(In Washington U. S. Secretary of State Acheson said a meeting of the 12 foreign ministers might well be necessary in the spring.) The spokesman said no date was set for the meeting, which may be held in April or May. The council held its first meeting last April 4, when the pact was signed in Washington.

H. C. Fortier, Piano Tuner Has This To Say:

A great many people who are concerned about their children's musical education do not realize how important it is to have their piano in tune as well as in good mechanical condition.

So your music teacher can not take all the blame if your child does not progress as you think she or he should.

A piano is a delicate instrument, and under the most favorable conditions should be looked after at least once a year.

Some pianos require at least two tunings a year, extreme heat in winter sometimes cause rattles and vibrations which can prove serious if neglected.

During rainy seasons sometimes a piano will draw dampness, causing corrosion of flange pins which in turn cause sluggishness.

Take care of your piano, after all they cost money.

12 The Record-Herald, Thursday, March 2, 1950
Washington, C. H., Ohio

Mrs. Wiseman Is Hostess to Progress Club

The Progress Club of Jeffersonville was delightfully entertained at the home of the president Mrs. O. L. Wiseman.

Nineteen members and Dr. O. L. Wiseman were present to enjoy a very profitable and instructive evening.

The president Mrs. Wiseman presided and all responded to roll call with current events, presenting many topics which created lively discussions.

Mrs. Neal Conner's paper "What's New in Congress?" showed a great amount of preparation and study. She enumerated the great number of subjects considered by the Eighty-first Congress.

She gave in some detail the plan of organization of the Hoover Commission, a body created to study the organization of the federal government in an effort to find means of minimizing the overlapping of bureaus and committees and to place responsibility upon individuals where it rightfully belongs.

The recommendations of this group, it is reported would save an approximate three million dollars in taxpayers money if put into effect. Some progress is being made in carrying them out.

Miss Maude Routson's paper, "American Production" was most interesting and fascinating. In the recorded five thousand years history of man, the present period is the one of greatest production and material progress.

Four elements necessary in successful industrial production are, natural resources, labor, capital and the function of bringing together the other three agents.

This act is performed by the board of directors.

The key in making this set-up function properly and produce after established, is the production manager, a newly created position which is attracting the attention of many highly trained and skilled young people of our day.

The basis of mass production is standardization.

Standardization means the ability to produce worth while products cheaply, and low cost allows great groups of people to buy and the large volume of sales is the life blood of mass production.

In Ohio is established some three hundred research laboratories, groups trying to find the answer to industrial and production problems for research is the starting point for engineering and production.

At the close of the meeting a delicious salad course was served by the hostess.

Retail Food Prices Steady

(By the Associated Press)
Retail food prices held mostly steady this week after edging upward in many meat, poultry and produce departments last week.

Some stores marked up lamb, frying and broiling chickens and eggs. But the changes were minor and well scattered.

Downward adjustments were confined largely to a few vegetables in heavier supply this week: snap beans, beets, broccoli, cauliflower (now reaching distant markets from California), celery, onions and new Florida potatoes.

Choice apples, citrus fruits and lamb appeared to be working a little higher at the wholesale level, while pork was easing somewhat at mid-week, agriculture department reporters said.

Louisiana strawberries were selling in stores as far away as New York and Chicago—much earlier than usual—to take the place of the Florida berries whose season is nearing the close. And the first shipments of asparagus from California arrived in markets on the eastern seaboard.

The agriculture department reported egg output was running about 12 per cent over last year's level and said the low price of both eggs and poultry probably would result in production cutbacks. So the prospect is for somewhat higher prices after June. Farmers received an average of 29.6 cents a dozen for eggs last month compared with 41.8 cents a year ago, and 21.8 cents a pound for chickens as against 29.5 cents a year ago, the department said.

A spokesman for the Poultry and Egg National Board, an industry promotion group, reported that eggs in incubation in the Delaware-Maryland-Virginia broiler-production area last week reached a record of nearly 4,000,000. Most of those will be coming to market as broilers about 15 weeks from now, he said. The area is the nation's principal broiler-finishing zone.

Two large store chains boosted bag-packed coffee four cents a pound this week, blaming the high cost of replacement stocks. They said the advances would have been made earlier if the chains hadn't had inventories on hand which were purchased before green coffee beans climbed to their present prices.

Coffee trade circles in New York said concern over a possible coffee shortage this spring had diminished considerably since last November when green coffee beans were at their peak price level. Estimates of the important Brazilian coffee crop to be harvested this summer have been more optimistic lately, they said, and buying by the large roasters has fallen off sharply. Consumer buying has been relatively slow ever since December.

The agriculture department reported this week that the government's holdings of surplus wheat total about 530,000,000 bushels—or some 30,000,000 bushels more than Americans eat each year in the form of flour, cereals and other food products.

The Dun & Bradstreet wholesale food price index this week rose two cents from last week to $5.85, and was .5 per cent above the $5.82 of a year ago. The index represents the total cost at wholesale of one pound each of 31 general use foods.

AN ACTION DRAMA, "CHAIN LIGHTNING," has been booked for the opening attraction of next week's entertainment program at the Fayette Theater. It starts Sunday and runs through Monday. In the scene above from the picture, Eleanor Parker feigns disinterest as Humphrey Bogart receives instructions for testing a jet plane. That's a tip on the theme of the story.

48,000 Workers Got Pay Boost In This State

Minimum Wage Sent Many Salaries Upward Here

When the new 75 cent minimum wage under the Fair Labor Standards Act went into effect January 25, it boosted the pay of approximately 48,000 Ohioans, including scores of Fayette Countians.

The pay boost is estimated by W. S. Singley, regional director of the wage and hour public contracts division of the U. S. Department of Labor.

The law covers 1,600,000 Ohio workers in about 33,000 plants. However, of the 48,000 who get pay raises as a result of the increase in the minimum from 40 to 75 cents an hour, Singley estimates that approximately 36,000 were already getting at least 50 cents an hour.

In addition to raising the minimum wage from 40 to 75 cents an hour, the 81st Congress strengthened the child labor provisions of the act by directly prohibiting the employment of children under 16 in commerce or in the production of goods for commerce and the employment of minors under 18 in hazardous occupations.

Prior to January 25, the child labor provisions of the act merely prohibited the shipment in commerce of goods produced in an establishment which had employed under-age children within 30 days of shipment of the goods.

Other amendments to the Fair Labor Standards Act, effective January 25, serve to exempt some workers from the minimum wage or overtime provisions or in some instances from both. Singley estimates that about 14,000 workers in Ohio were affected by the exemption amendments and changes in coverage.

"It should be emphasized, however, that these exemptions apply only to the wage and hour provisions of the act and not to the child labor provisions," he said. "As a matter of fact the agricultural exemption for children has been tightened."

Singley explained that the new amended act now prohibits the employment of a child in agriculture when school is in session in the district where the child resides.

Formerly the law said that children could not be employed in agriculture when they were "legally required to attend school." Thus, under "the old provision children could be employed on farms even though school was in session, if, as in the case of children of migrant farm workers, they were not legally required to be in school.

The 81st Congress also defined the "regular rate of pay" on which overtime computations are based. Singley pointed out, and it gave the administrator power to sue for back wages owed employees under the wage and hour provisions of the act, upon the written request of the employee."

It also changed the definition of the word produced on which coverage is based.

Low Price of Eggs May Be Reversed

WASHINGTON, March 2—(AP)—Current depressed producer prices of eggs and poultry are likely to bring on a reduced output and higher prices after mid-year, the agriculture department said today.

Eggs brought farmers an average of 29.6 cents a dozen in February compared with 41.8 cents a year ago. Chickens brought an average of 21.8 cents a pound compared with 29.5 cents a year ago.

The department said reports indicate that farmers plan to buy 12 per cent fewer baby chicks this year. This means that laying flocks will be reduced and that both the production of eggs and chickens for meat will go down.

At the present time, however, egg production is running about 12 per cent above last year's level.

With a Buckeye in Congress Relations with Red Satellites Strained Following Spy Trials

By CLARENCE J. BROWN
The United States government has officially broken off diplomatic relations with the communist-controlled government of Bulgaria, which had demanded this country recall Minister Donald R. Heath. American officials denounced Bulgaria's accusation that Heath was a spy as patently false, and the whole affair as a part of the communist propaganda campaign. U. S. officials are also greatly disturbed over the recent conviction of an American businessman on an espionage charge by a communist-dominated Hungarian People's Court.

Foreign Aid Administrator Paul Hoffman and Secretary of State

Acheson spent most of last week on Capitol Hill urging that Congress appropriate $3 billion 100 million to finance the European recovery program during the coming fiscal year. They argued the money is needed to stop the spread of communism in Europe, but it is noted that Great Britain will again get the largest amount of aid given any one nation—nearly one-fourth of all foreign aid—or $687 million. Veteran congressmen are noting that, as the time approaches to vote on requested appropriations for foreign aid and military spending, another war scare has again developed. In the past annual war scares have always died down quickly once Congress voted the money requested by the administration. Whether the cry of "wolf" will work again this year remains to be seen.

The House committee on banking and currency last week favorably reported a bill to authorize between two and three billion dollars of government loans to cooperatives for the construction of homes for the middle income group, on a 40 to 60 year repayment basis at 3 percent interest. At present Veteran Administration loans for home construction to veterans carry 4 percent interest, while the Federal Housing Administration under-writes and insures loans to the general public for home construction at a 4 1/2 percent rate. Both classes of loans are limited to not more than a 25 year period, however.

A Senate committee hearing on the proposal to create a world state, to which this and other nations would surrender their sovereignty, fizzled out badly last week. National veteran organizations and other patriotic groups opposed the proposal as impractical, cal, and as one which would eventually destroy all our hard-earned American liberties and freedoms.

David Lilienthal, long a controversial figure within the government, stepped out as chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission last week. He has been succeeded by Sumner Pike, a New England Republican. At the time Lilienthal was named chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission there was a long controversy in the Senate over confirming his appointment.

There is a growing sentiment throughout the United States, and other countries, that the time has come for a world conference on bringing an end to the present armament race between the East and the West, and to prohibit or place restrictions on the use of atomic and hydrogen bombs. Britain's Winston Churchill is one of the leaders in this effort.

A 41-year-old Pittsburgh insurance salesman, who as an agent of the FBI joined the Communist Party in 1943, was the star witness before the House unAmerican activities committee last week. He gave the committee the names of many Communists working in the western Pennsylvania-Ohio area and promised to give further information next week.

The nationwide telephone strike, scheduled for last week, has been postponed for at least 60 days while federal mediators attempt to work out a settlement of the labor-management disputes involved. As this column is being written the coal strike continues, with rumors current that the northern coal operators and the miners union are near a settlement of their disputes. There is a strong demand that the Truman Administration proceed with further court action under the Taft-Hartley act. If that approach does not solve the problem it is entirely possible that the Congress may authorize government seizure and operation of the coal mines.

The controversial FEPC bill, one of the most important portions of the president's civil rights program, finally came before the House last Wednesday—Washington's Birthday. At the end of a continuous session which lasted from 12:00 o'clock until 3:30 the next morning, the House voted—221 to 178—to substitute a more moderate FEPC bill, carrying no penalty provisions, for the administration-sponsored compulsory measure under which heavy penalties could be imposed on employers judged guilty of discrimination in giving employment. On Thursday the more mild substitute bill passed the House by a vote of 240 to 177. Under the House approved measure a federal commission of five members would be appointed to study employment practices, to make recommendations as to methods to eliminate discrimination in employment, and to conciliate dis-

Church Project For Home Visits

'Operation Doorbells' Starts Here March 4

Members of the Seventh Day Adventist Church here today are making plans for starting their "operation doorbells" next Saturday.

As explained by Mrs. Della Ford, one of the church leaders, "operation doorbells" is a campaign being carried on throughout the church "to get acquainted with your neighbor."

It will be, Mrs. Ford explained, the first phase of a nationwide endeavor by the church to bring spiritual help to the people of America through visits into the homes.

Here in Washington C. H., the plan calls for lay members of the little white church on Broadway to make the visits to the homes in teams of two. On their calls, they are to stress what was described as "every day religion" based on greater church attendance, family Bible study and prayer.

Another Purpose

This crusade, Mrs. Ford said, also would serve to locate needy families that could be aided from time to time by the church's Dorcas Welfare Society.

At World headquarters of the Seventh Day Adventist Church in Washington, D. C., plans are being made for 10,000 home visits during the year.

This company also was described as the major missionary activity of the church for the year. It is being carried on in Europe, South America, Central America, Africa, Japan, the Philippines, Canada and the United States.

Crusade Against Atomic War By Artist Opened with Shock

BY GODFREY ANDERSON
PARIS, March 2—(AP)—An American artist's crusade to shock world opinion into realization that an atomic war might mean the end of humanity will give Paris art-goers a hair-raising experience when his first exhibition opens here tomorrow.

The 30-year-old artist, who says he was born at Johnstown, Pa., refuses to give any personal details about himself beyond saying that he has been painting for ten years and has had some of his pictures shown in New York, San Francisco, and Santa Fe, N. M. He signs his work simply "Kek" and claims that is his real name.

Calling himself first crusader of the "crusade of artists to prevent World War III," which he says was formed in Mexico City two years ago, Stephen Kek says: "We are trying to give a plastic form to Professor Albert Einstein's warning about possible disintegration of the world as result of a new conflict, so as to arouse world conscience."

So far there are only six other artists in the group—one Argentinian, one Brazilian, one Guatemalan, one Chilean and two Mexicans—but Kek refuses to reveal their names until "they have done something worthwhile."

"Meanwhile we keep in touch by correspondence," he explained.

Shock Is Difficult

Kek, who says he destroyed all his other paintings when he started the present series, admitted there were certain difficulties about shocking world opinion into action.

"For example, we have to be very careful with colors," he said. "We mustn't make war look too pleasant to look at."

In this, at least, he has succeeded. Waving a hand at the pictures which were stacked against the walls, on the floor and on the bed of his little room in a Montparnasse hotel, Kek confessed: "I don't look at the paintings. I merely create them and then put them face to the wall. If I had to look at them all the time, I'd go mad."

The first he pulled out from the wall was called "Cold War." A couple of gigantic naked figures were deadlocked in a wrestling hold against a background of New York skyscrapers, onion-shaped towers of the Kremlin, examples of French and British architecture, and a patch of jungle. The frame was stuck with French newspaper headlines about the atom and hydrogen bombs.

"It's symbolic," he explained. Some other works for the exhibition:

"Undeclared War."—Illustrates the fear of a bacteriological Pearl Harbor. Figures coughing blood sprawl about the steps of a building, while posters in English, French and Russian warn citizens of the outbreak of a mysterious disease.

Prevue of Fashions

"Figures and Costumes of Period Just Before The Third World War"—A man, woman and child in metallic clothing with transparent veiling over their faces, and hooks attached to the ends of their sleeves in place of hands. ("That's protection against atomic radiation," Kek explained.)

"Atmosphere in Flames"—A naked honeymoon couple cower in bed while the air shoots off fiery tongues of flame around them.

"View of A City in Disintegration"—An international street where all the world lives. Architecture of all nations topples on the frightened, upturned faces of humanity below.

"Last Love"—A couple on a lovers' seat with their heads already aflame and the world burning behind them. ("That's for the young," said Kek. "We have to think of them, too. No one will escape and this will help make it more real to them.")

"Self-Destruction"—Rows of suicides dangling from telegraph poles. Above them various planets are exploding. ("The idea for this one was based on Orson Welles' broadcast 'Invasion From Mars,'" the artist said.)

"Still Life With The Artist Disintegrated" shows the artist himself disintegrating into the picture he is painting. ("Abstract," commented Kek.)

"Portrait of The Real Victims of A Third World War"—Rats gnawing human remains. ("The rats

will survive because they live so deep in the ground.")

"Portrait of A Family of The Generation After The Atomic Era"—They are mostly two-headed and some have three legs. The children have long monkey tails with which they hang upside down from their mother's arm.

Kek saved his most horrific work for last.

"This is the ultimate in human degradation," he said, carefully preparing the way. "It probably doesn't shock me as much as it will you, since I have lived among primitive tribes where this sort of thing is done."

The picture, entitled "Scene of Cannibalism Among The Ruins of The Third World War," showed a woman in a low cut black evening dress sitting down before a platter on which was a human arm.

9-Game Slate Is Set Up for Lion Football

Basketball may be on the wane for another season now and track and baseball may be just over the horizon, but autumn and football will come again in the high school sports parade here.

And, come next fall, the old South Central Ohio League will be back full strength again after a "cooling off" period in which the Lions of WHS and Hillsboro's Indians did not meet on gridiron, court, track or diamond.

A nine-game football schedule has been filled out for the Lions for next fall. The opening game will be played here Sept. 15 with Linden-McKinley's gofers from Columbus as their opponents.

The closing game also is to be played here. Circleville's Tigers are to come to help ring down the season's curtain on Nov. 10.

All Old Rivals

The schedule is marked by old rivals again. For several years past, the WHS schedule-makers have branched out to book teams in Cincinnati, Dayton and Columbus that were comparatively new. For the most part, the Lions did all right against them, too.

The longest trip for the Lions will be to Jackson for the second game on Sept. 22. This will be the third year in a row the two schools have met.

Three of the Lions' four SCO League games come in a row, starting Oct. 6 with Greenfield's Tigers here.

Here is the full schedule:
Sept. 15 Linden-McKinley
Sept. 22 Jackson
Sept. 29 Portsmouth East
Oct. 6 Greenfield
Oct. 13 Hillsboro
Oct. 20 Wilmington
Oct. 27 London
Nov. 3 Bexley
Nov. 10 Circleville

Lusty Song Favorite For Hambletonian

NEW YORK, March 1—(AP)—Lusty Song, flashy two-year-old champion trotter of last year, was installed today at the 5 to 2 winner book favorite for the 1950 Hambletonian stake. Odds were released by the U. S. Trotting Association.

The $85,000 Kentucky Derby of harness racing, the richest of them all, will be held at Good Time Park, Goshen, N. Y., Aug. 9, during the grand circuit meeting. Lusty Song, owned by the Hayes Fair Acres Stable, DuQuoin, Ill., cracked the world race record for age and gait twice as a juvenile. He set the new standard of 2:02 1-5 in the $32,990 Horseman Stake at Indianapolis. The colt is a son of Volomite, sire of three previous Hambletonian winners.

Calumet's Prestige Is Up to Bewitch

MIAMI, Fla., March 2—(P)—Bewitch, queen of the turf in 1949, may be the horse to overcome Calumet Farm's recent hex as she races against a dozen other fillies and mares today in Hialeah Race Track's $15,000 added Black Helen handicap.

The Calumet prima donna, voted the finest mare last year, must yield from six to 36 pounds in the mile and a furlong test under the top impost of 126 pounds.

With her jinx opponent, Bewitch is the lopsided overnight favorite at 6 to 5. Fighting Fan, winner of $10,000 added Columbiana and twice conqueror of Bewitch this year, will be sitting the Black Helen out.

During their first month of operations from two airfields on Okinawa, Marine fighter pilots knocked down 209 Jap planes while losing only four in aerial combat.

Cagers Point For Exhibition

Teams Strengthened For Friday Meeting

The College All-Stars of the U. of Dayton, have announced their starting line-up for the basketball feature against Rife's at the WHS gym, Friday night.

When the whistle sounds to start the big game about 8:30 P. M., the All-Stars will have Tom Frericks at forward, Bill Cutchey at center and Gene Hickey and Marlowe Termini in the guard positions.

The preliminary, also promising to be a close-fought affair, will send the American Legion against a strong Good Hope squad at 7:30 P. M.

The Rife's team will be at full strength for the game against the All-Stars, Jimmy Westendorf and Clyde Holsinger will be in uniform, along with the remaining starters, to be picked from Dick Andrews, Frelan VanMeter, Jimmy Johnson, Bob Cooney, Paul Jones, Ray Caudill, Bob Summers and a few others.

Football practice started Wednesday afternoon for the U. of Dayton boys, so Dan O'Brien reported that a couple of new boys had been added to the cage squad coming here Friday, to assure the fans a full game of fast action.

The newcomers to the All-Star line-up are: Gene Hickey, who played basketball for the Toledo Central Catholic team that was runner-up in the state finals last year. He stands 5 feet, 11 inches; and Tom Frericks, standing 6

WHS Lions To Meet Aquinas At Columbus

The WHS Blue Lions will take the court against Columbus Aquinas at 7:45 P. M. Thursday in their first action in the Class A district tournament at the Fairgrounds Coliseum in Columbus.

Aquinas beat Grove City on Wednesday night 65-36.

Coach Steve Lewis ran his boys through their regular drills this week, polishing up their play for the tourney match.

On Tuesday, the Lion squad was broken down into two teams and held a hard scrimmage. The WHS cagers spent Wednesday putting the final touch on a series of plays to be sprung against their tourney opponents.

The Lions worked hard and patiently at their pick-off and screen plays, developing their timing and shooting skill.

The WHS game will be preceded by the Bexley-Upper Arlington game at 6:30 P. M. Following the Lion-Aquinas battle will be Columbus West against Columbus South at 9 P. M.

More Schools Close

MARSHALL, March 2—(P)—D. M. Bryson, superintendent of Vinton County Schools, said yesterday the McArthur Public Schools and the Allensville Consolidated Schools will be closed the rest of the week because of the influenza outbreak.

Wayne Eliminated By Marshall, 54-49

The Wayne Mad Anthony's rallied desperately in the final quarter but fell short as Marshall dropped them from the Class B district tourney at Waverly Wednesday night, 54 to 49.

The Good Hope boys, who copied the Fayette County tourney championship last Monday, opened in grand style against the strong (20-2) Marshall team as they took a 10-7 lead at the quarter.

But Marshall came back strong in the second period and forged ahead by 24-20 at halftime. They held Wayne once more to just ten points in the third period as they boosted their lead to a healthy 42-30.

With Wayne still had plenty left. With Virgil Wallace dropping in nine points, Wayne rallied hard and outscored the winners in the fourth period, but the big lead was too much to overcome.

A swarm of followers from Good Hope made their presence known in the Waverly gym as they gave their Wayne team more vocal support than was received by any other school.

Thompson of Marshall, was the big difference. Shaking himself loose in the corners, he pumped shot after shot through the cords and added a few from underneath to run up a total of 31 points.

Billy Anderson garnered 14 points and experienced what is called an "off" night, as he missed oftener than usual. Wallace put in 12 points.

Circleville Beaten By Columbus North

The topseeded Circleville Tigers were eliminated from the Class A district tournament at the Fairgrounds Coliseum Wednesday night, by Columbus North, 54-53.

Circleville got away to an early lead, 17-11, in the first quarter. North rushed back to tie it up in the last seconds before the half-time buzzer, 23-23. North continued setting the pace and led at the third quarter, 41-37. They held a bare edge in the final period to beat the Tigers. Starkey got 25 points. On Tuesday night, North shaded Columbus Central by a single point, 58-57.

Columbus Aquinas romped over a hapless Grove City aggregation by a 65-36 score in the second game of the Central District triple-header.

The WHS Lions meet Aquinas Thursday evening at 7:45 P. M. In the other Class A tilt, Upper Arlington beat Delaware, 43-39 and will meet Bexley Thursday evening.

In Class B games at Waverly, Marshall dropped Good Hope, 54-49 and Minford crushed Oak Hill, 68-38.

Ashtand, a team that came here last January 13 and beat the WHS Lions by a 59-43 score, ran wild in their Class A tourney game at Mansfield. The Ashtand Taylors beat Bucyrus, 108 to 46.

Remember the Waterloo Wonders? Second Edition in Tourney Spotlight

COLUMBUS, March 2—(P)—Nestled down in the Lawrence County Hills, where Symmes Creek wanders under Route 141, is the village of Waterloo—population 190.

Out of Waterloo, back in 1933, came the most colorful and most talked-about high school basketball team in Ohio history.

That quiet, the famed Waterloo Wonders, won the state Class B title in 1933 and 1934. Magellan Hairston, principal of the school and coach of the club, was classed as a combination miracle man and Houdini.

Jamestown Tamers Lead Lions League

After winning two out of three from the third place WCH Claws, the Jamestown Tamers today were breathing a little easier on the top rung of the Lions League bowling standing.

The second place WCH Tamers slipped a little in the race when they lost two games of their Wednesday night match at Bowland to the Bloomingburg Claws.

It was a night for the underdogs, however.

The cellar dwelling Bloomingburg Tailtwisters made a clean sweep of their match with the Jamestown Cubs and the sixth place WCH Tailtwisters came through with a three-game win from the WCH Cubs.

The Wonders had everything—class, poise, shooting ability, defensive strength. No one who ever saw them will forget. Individually, there wasn't a star in the lot. As a team they couldn't be beaten.

Unorthodox in every way—that was the Wonders. Unheralded, they came off their hill country outdoor court dressed in overalls, their uniforms wrapped around their gym shoes and fastened with a piece of baling twine, to capture the championships and the hearts of the fans.

Kirk Tractorettes Far Out in Front

Kirk's Tractorettes today were making a runaway of the Ladies League bowling race after making another clean sweep Wednesday night on the Bowland lanes. The NCR girls were the victims this time.

The Tractorettes stretched their already long lead when the second place Paulin Motors from Mt. Sterling and Ruth's Beauticians, in third place, each lost two games.

The Paulin girls were set back in the first and last games by Wade's Shoes. The Beauticians were handed their defeats in the first and last games, too, by Helfrich's Markettes.

In the other match, the Mac Toolers won the first two games from the King-Kash quintet.

finals—a foul was called on the Wonders' foe before a point had been scored. A kid named Drummond stepped to the foul line, and instead of tossing the ball through the hoop with the old underhand flip of those days, he picked a spot about three feet ahead of the foul line and bounced the ball off it through the basket for the first counter.

After that it was "no contest." Many times the Wonders rolled down the floor, ran into a zone defense, and one of the magicians—halted before a defensive man with outstretched arms—would nonchalantly bounce the ball off his foe's chest and catch it again before the defensive man could get his arms down. Often a "Wonder," with a bunny shot under the basket, would just grin and hand the ball to his opponent—with an elaborate bow.

When one of the Wonders tired, he'd stroll over to the bench and chat with Hairston for a while, and the other four carried on—and we do mean carried on.

Words can't describe all their antics and how they demoralized the foe. The saga of how they were almost late for their first game because they wouldn't get off the hotel elevator, and of their colorful acceptance of the state title trophy, has grown into an oft-repeated legend.

On The Loose Again
But what we started to say is that the Waterloo Wonders—1950 version—are on the loose again. Another Hairston, brother Elbert of former Coach Magellan, is mentor of this new threat.

One of the stars of the old Wonders was Stewart Wiseman. On the modern team are his brother, Reynold, and his cousin Wayne. The other team members—Bob and Dale Pyles, Don Meeks, Jack Miller, Jack Keyes, Bill Cremeens and Charley Null—are not related to any of the old timers.

The new Wonders have won 21 and lost three games this year. They are the Lawrence County champions. Tonight, at Waverly, they meet Wheelersburg (8-13) in their first start in the sectional tourney.

In Linnville—down Route 141 through Arabia and Aid—Magellan Hairston is watching the new Wonders. The former coach owns a dairy farm, and part of an auto business.

He's hoping the newcomers come through, of course. All Lawrence County is for 'em. But it's a long tough trail to the state title—and the Wonders, more than any other team, are wearing big shoes in trying to traverse it.

CHAPTER THIRTY

BLACKIE was tough. He stayed on his knees with both hands planted on the floor to support his weight. He breathed heavily through his open mouth and shook his head like a wounded and dazed animal.

Shayne dropped his automatic into his coat pocket and cocked the hammer of the double-action .45 with his right hand.

Blackie began to push his torso laboriously upward. His eyes were fixed on the cocked gun in the detective's left hand. Shayne said, "I like you better on the floor."

He put the sole of his big shoe in Blackie's face and shoved. Blackie sprawled backward and lay there for a moment.

When he pulled himself slowly to a sitting position, he grunted, "Even us up. Who'd you say was killed?"

"Mrs. Mark Dustin."

"I don't know any Mrs. Dustin. I ain't killed nobody. Not recently," he amended, clearing his throat and turning his head to spit.

"Did you send someone over to keep your date with her?"

"What date you talking about?"

"The one you made by telephone," said Shayne irritably. "After you tried to kill my secretary and pretended it was me talking over the phone."

"Look, Shamus, I don't know what you're talking about. So I slugged you tonight... by mistake. So, all right. Now you slugged me. So we're even. I don't know about this other stuff."

"I suppose," said Shayne angrily, "you don't know anything about a 'rub' bracelet."

"That's right," Blackie folded his bare arms across his chest and sighed. "I got to sit here all day?"

Shayne said, "What about a busted fender on the limousine?"

"Sure. I got a busted fender fixed up at Mickey's." He ran a thick tongue over his thick lips.

"Me and the Kid took the big job out without the boss knowing about it and scraped some paint off. It was getting it patched up when you barged in."

"How do you mean you slugged me by mistake?"

"I must of got mixed up on the phone," Blackie explained readily. "I thought you was sticking your nose in my business and trying to shake me down by threatening to tell the boss about the busted fender."

"So you called him up to find out what to do?" Shayne jeered.

"I just pretended to call up," Blackie explained swiftly. "To see what you'd do. You fell for that gag, huh?"

His story, Shayne realized, had been well rehearsed. When the boss had changed his mind, for some unknown reason, about dealing with the insurance company on a reward for the return of the rubies, he had realized it had been framed for the job. If he were slugged, so he had evidently ordered Blackie to shoulder the full responsibility for that error.

"I know you're lying right down the line," Shayne told him dispassionately. "As you say, we're even on the slugging, but we're still not even on a couple of other things. I don't like mugs who come in my apartment and answer my phone... and slap my dolls around."

"Honest to God," Blackie protested, "I've never been inside your apartment."

"That's easily checked. Get up."

"I sort of like it here on the floor."

Shayne said, "You'll have a chance to stay there forever if you don't start moving." He gestured toward the door with the cocked .45.

His tone convinced Blackie that the discussion was ended. He lumbered to his feet and Shayne said, "Walk out that door and straight down the rye to the street. Then turn to the right to the corner and then to the left. My car is parked half-way down the block. We're going for a ride together, and if you make one single move or sound I don't like I'll blast you with your own gun. The cops would thank me for doing it because I've got you framed right in the middle of a murder rap, and they can use a fall guy. Get going."

Blackie got going. Shayne followed him out the door and down the drive to the street. The sun hung like a red ball of fire behind the misty clouds above the rim of the ocean. Birds were singing in the shrubbery, and the new day held a clean warmth that promised muggy heat within a few hours.

They encountered no one on their walk to the corner and to the detective's car. "Get under the wheel and drive," Shayne ordered. "To the County Causeway and then turn left on Biscayne Boulevard. I'll be resting easy in the back seat with a gun on you."

Blackie opened the front door and got in. Shayne eased himself into the back seat and tossed the keys across to the driver.

Blackie drove carefully and expertly, and at slow speed. Shayne kept his eyes on the back of his head and let his mind wander into the unknown equations that were beginning to unravel. Blackie would talk soon enough. He was grimly sure of that. As soon as Lucy identified him as her attacker and he realized the spot he was in. His denial of Mrs. Dustin's murder had sounded genuine enough, and he might have been telling the truth.

It was plausible to presume that Blackie had contacted his employer after the telephone call and sent him to keep the appointment with her death. In that case, Blackie might well have been honestly surprised to learn that she had been murdered.

That was all the more reason why he would talk when he realized how neatly he had been framed for the job. If he were guilty, he might continue to obstinately deny any knowledge of the telephone call, but if innocent, he would be a fool if he didn't spill everything he knew.

One thing troubled Shayne as they turned down Biscayne Boulevard. He felt positive he held the key to recovery of the bracelet, but if he let the policeman on guard at his apartment hear Blackie's confession, the secret would no longer be his and any possible reward would slip out of his hands like hot butter.

He had an angle figured by the time they reached the foot of Flagler Street. He said to Blackie: "Swing over to Second Avenue and then toward the river. I'll show you where to pull up just this side of the drawbridge."

When the car was parked, Shayne took the keys and said casually, "We're going in through the hotel lobby and up to the third floor. There's a Miami cop in my apartment. Figure things out for yourself. If you'd rather keep this whole thing private, just between you and me, use your head and I'll tell him you're a friend. We'll get rid of the cop and talk it over after he's gone. If you want to make it tough I'll take you in with a gun on you and hand you over to him on two charges: Murder and attempted murder."

Blackie turned a swollen and frightened face toward Shayne and said hoarsely, "Honest, I'm not hunting no trouble. I don't know what all this stuff is about murder, but I'd rather do my talking outside bars than behind them."

"Fair enough, but don't forget I've got two guns on me. Let's go." He thrust the revolver inside his trousers waistband and buttoned his coat over it, then led the way around to the front entrance and they entered the lobby.

The night clerk was still on duty. He yawned and watched the two men approach with red-rimmed eyes. Shayne stopped by the desk and said, "You know my friend don't you, Jim? He was up to see me last night when I was out."

The clerk studied Blackie's face intently. He said, "I don't believe I do, Mr. Shayne. Is Miss Hamilton going to be all right?"

"I'm on my way up there now. Dr. Price thought she was okay when I left a few hours ago."

The elevator was waiting, and when they got in, Shayne said to the operator, "Take a good look at this man. Ever see him before?"

"Listen..." Blackie began to protest, but Shayne silenced him with a look.

"I don't know as I have or not," the boy said reflectively. "I might could remember better, Mist' Shayne, was you to tell me jest when I saw 'im."

Shayne said, "We'll skip that for the moment." They got out of the elevator and started for his apartment.

Armstrong was indicted a year ago, March 1, 1949, with Harry D. Dodds, Jr., 21, and Gordon Rawlins, 18. Dodds died in the electric chair Feb. 24, and Rawlins is serving a life sentence in Ohio Penitentiary.

They were charged in the robbery-slaying of Miss Eleanor Gifford at her home near Athens Jan. 3, 1949. Dodds admitted beating her to death with a claw hammer.

Big Ted Kluszewski Holding Out on Reds

TAMPA, Fla., March 2—(AP)—
Big Ted Kluszewski — of all people was tabbed today as a Cincinnati Reds holdout.

Kluszewski was the Reds' regular first Baseman last year and a late season hitting splurge boosted him over the .300 mark in batting but he has been doped to have some rough competition this year from Joe Adcock even to hold his job.

But the bulky Ted wasn't on hand yesterday when the Redlegs opened spring training and Manager Luke Sewell declared "Klu-szewski is our only holdout."

Infielder Jimmy Bloodworth also hasn't signed his 1950 contract but Sewell called the grey-haired Jimmy a "hold-on". Bloodworth was reported to be seeking assurance he'd stay on for at least 90 days and that would make him a 10-year man in the majors.

Sewell lost no time in getting the boys down to work at the job they like best—throwing and hitting.

He looked down his nose at the usual early calisthenics and had the team in hitting practice in the first drill.

Utah will vote in the 1950 general election on a constitutional amendment to make the office of state superintendent of public instruction appointive instead of

Red Cross Drive Underway Here

City Manager Asks For Local Support

Scores of workers started making their solicitations at homes throughout Washington C. H. and Fayette County Wednesday as the annual Red Cross drive got underway.

Chairmen who will handle various phases of the solicitations have been assigned, and they have picked those who will work under them.

Tom Mark, drive chairman, said the campaign will be intensified during the first two weeks of March.

This year the workers are shooting for a higher goal than they had last year. This year they hope to raise $9,500.

City Manager Winston W. Hill has signed a proclamation which calls the attention of county residents to the importance of the Red Cross drive during Red Cross week, which will last until next Tuesday.

The proclamation follows: Whereas, the war against man by the elements causing floods, fires, tornadoes, hurricanes, and other disasters goes on year after year without let-up.

Whereas, the American National Red Cross—under its congressional charter for disaster relief and rehabilitation—has aided the victims of 330 domestic disasters during the fiscal year 1948-49, and stands ready to aid the victims of those sure to come.

Whereas, the Red Cross is carrying out its charter obligations to active servicemen at home and abroad and to veterans.

Whereas, there is a nationally-recognized need for blood and blood derivatives by medical, health and hospital authorities for the conservation of human life, and:

Whereas, the ultimate goal of the Blood Program of the American Red Cross is to provide blood and blood derivatives without charge to physicians for treatment of the ill and injured.

Therefore, I Winston W. Hill, city manager of Washington C. H. proclaim the week of March 1-7, 1950, as Red Cross week and do here and now urge all citizens of this community to contribute without reservation to the 1950 Red Cross Fund through our local chapter.

I further urge that all men and women of good will remember that this great humanitarian organization must be kept at full strength in peace as it was in war so that this symbol of man's humanity to man may remain as a guide to all those who turn to it in time of need.

Two Physicians from Here at Medical Meet

Dr. N. M. Reiff and Dr. James E. Rose of Washington C. H. were among those in attendance at the Tri-County medical meeting, held in Anderson's Restaurant in Greenfield Wednesday night.

The subject for the evening was "Intestinal Obstructions." Dr. N. H. Holmes, a surgeon from Chillicothe, and Dr. W. H. Carter, radiologist from White Cross Hospital in Columbus, read papers before the group.

County Courts

CLARE HYER ARRESTED

Clare Hyer, 22, Clarksburg, who figured in a sensational jail break here two years ago, when he and several other prisoners overpowered Deputy Sheriff Guy Carter, is now in the Ross County Jail.

Hyer was sentenced to Mansfield Reformatory from this county, following his recapture a short time after he broke jail here. He recently was released on probation.

This week he and his former wife, Leora Conner, 26, Clarksburg were arrested by deputy sheriffs in Ross County, and both placed in jail for investigation.

The officers arrested the pair after Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Conner of Clarksburg had informed them that their daughter was missing.

The pair will be questioned by Pickaway County authorities. Reports indicate that Hyer may again be involved in trouble over a bad check passed recently. He had been out of the reformatory less than one week.

Bucket Brigade Quells Flames In Staunton Home

Volunteer fire fighters saved the Loren Kimmey home in Staunton Wednesday night under the difficult handicaps of wind, cold, snow and lack of adequate fire fighting equipment.

The fire started in the living room of the house while no one was at home. It was soon discovered and calls were made for the numerous fire extinguishers which the Concord Township trustees purchased and have at strategically located farm homes in the township.

At the same time a bucket brigade was formed. After two hours of hard work, the last embers were extinguished.

Much of the west side of the house was badly damaged and part of the household goods were ruined by fire, smoke and water.

Two dogs trapped in the house perished in the blaze. A third dog was rescued by Police Chief Valden Long, who was visiting at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Russell Lanman near Staunton when call came for a fire extinguisher. He took the extinguisher and assisted in fighting the fire. Origin of the fire is not known.

Truck and Auto Involved in Crash

When an auto driven by James C. Crabtree and a truck driven by Richard Williamson collided at the intersection of Columbus Avenue and Delaware Street at 9 P. M. Wednesday night, both vehicles were damaged. Nancy Holland, 18, city, was treated by

Election Board Is Reorganized

New Chairman Is Virtus Kruse

The Fayette County Board of Elections, with one new member and a new chairman, today was beginning to make plans for handling its first big task, the May primary elections.

Forrest Anders, one of the county's Republican leaders for years, is the new member of the board. He was appointed by the secretary of state to take the place of Gene McLean, also a Republican, whose term had expired.

M. L. Lyons, the other retiring member of the board, was reappointed by Secy. Sweeney.

Virtus Kruse, chairman of the Democratic executive committee, was named chairman of the board when it reorganized. He is a Democrat.

He took over the chairmanship in turn from Lyons, the other Democratic member of the board, whose term as the chairman expired. Lyons, however, remains on the board.

The other Republican member of the board is Roy Thompson. Each member of the board draws a salary of $31.50 a month.

Harold G. McLean, not a member of the board, was retained as its clerk. Ruth Witherspoon is the deputy clerk.

The clerk of the board and the deputy handle most of the actual work of the election routine and are on regular salary. The clerk gets $47.50 per month.

Members of the board, however, make the official decisions, sign the orders etc. While they keep in touch with the day by day goings-on, the members of the board find most of their work concentrated into the election periods.

The first big task for the new board will be the party primary elections in May. They will have to start getting ready for the actual voting day, however, in the near future when they get the ballots ready for the printer.

The appointments to the board are made, according to custom, by the secretary of state upon the recommendation of the county Republican and Democratic committees. Sometimes, but not often, the secretary of state ignores the committee recommendations. The board is bi-partisan with two Republican and two Democratic members.

Dr. Joseph W. Herbert. Her arm was injured in the crash.

Police investigated the mishap, which occurred when the auto was headed east on Columbus Avenue, and the truck, moving north on Delaware Street, collided.

County Hospital Gets Certificate

The Fayette County Memorial Hospital on March 1 received from the state of Ohio an official registration certificate recognizing it as a first class hospital.

The certificate is issued by the State Department of Health and is signed by Dr. John D. Porterfield, director of health for the state.

It will enable the new hospital here to function as a first class hospital the same as any other high grade hospital in the state. It will be eligible for receiving hospital insurance patients and will be accorded the same rights and privileges as any hospital in Ohio.

Radio Stolen from Office at City Dump

A thief broke a window in a building at the city dump Wednesday night took a radio, which was the property of Ralph Huff an employee there.

The thief did not enter the place, but he reached in from the broken window and removed the radio.

Apparently the theft was committed by someone familiar with the place, police indicated.

Garage Charred by Flames Wednesday

A garage owned by James Jenkins, 712 Carolyn Road, was badly charred by a fire, which started about 8:20 P. M. Wednesday night from an overheated fan-type heater.

Firemen quickly extinguished the blaze, which broke out windows and glass of the doors. When they arrived the fire was burning furiously throughout the interior of the building.

A fog nozzle was used in extinguishing the flames.

STUDENTS RECOVER

WILMINGTON — Henri and Alfredo Escalona, two students who became ill with meningitis, have recovered.

JACKSON — Mrs. Ivan Mapes, 27, was killed when her auto and a coal truck driven by William B. Skaggs, Cheshire, collided.

New Manager of Liquor Store

Democratic Committee Recommends Hidy

Following endorsement of the Fayette County Democratic executive committee Wednesday night, Joseph Kenneth Hidy, for more than four years an employee of the state liquor store here, is now the new manager of the store. He succeeds G. C. Kidner, who passed away recently.

Mr. Kidner had managed the store since it was opened.

Hidy had been cashier of the store. The new cashier is Tom Flynn, who has the approval of the committee. He had been clerk for sometime at the store.

Hidy and Flynn both had been chosen by the state department after the state officials got in touch with the committee here.

In addition to approving both men for promotions, the committee also endorsed Dale Roehms for clerk. He will probably be formally appointed within a short time.

The committee meeting was held at the board of elections office, with Virtus Kruse, chairman, presiding.

Woman Arrested For Shoplifting

Mary Elizabeth Stookey, 30, was taken into custody by police Wednesday night on a charge of shoplifting at Albers market.

Specifically, she was charged with stealing a bottle of wine at the market.

When taken into custody she told Police Chief Valden Long that she had recently been released after having served three years in the Dayton Workhouse.

She was to appear in police court Thursday to answer to the charge placed against her.
